

Getting a Comfortable Sleep

Getting a good night sleep is really important, so we had to find the right equipment. We've tried a few different sleep mats, and finally found one not only acceptable, but exceptional!

We found the right camp pad for us. Besides being really comfortable and helping us have a good night sleep, the camp pads we found are the right price, and the right size.

At Costco, we found North 49 Self Inflating Camp Pads. They were only about $30 each, and roll up to be a bit bigger than a sleeping bag. They are light enough and compact enough to fit in the van with all the other stuff.

The kids are happy and so are the parents!
