

Separate Food Area

Storing food at camp is very important. You have to take measures so that you don't have any unwanted visitors to your campsite. It is wise to make sure your campsite is cleaned each evening before crawling into your tent for the night. All tables should be cleaned. All cooking utensils and dishes should be cleaned each evening. All cooking utensils and food should be packed away either in your vehicle or in a safe area away from your sleeping tent. You should also have a separate area of camp for eating during the day. Food should not be in the sleeping tent. All food should be stored in air tight containers. Check with your campsite about their policy for disposal of any unwanted food.
